

Design Thinking is an iterative approach to problem solving that intentionally seeks out people with different perspectives, knowledge, skills and experience and has them work together to create a practical solution for a real-world problem.

defined

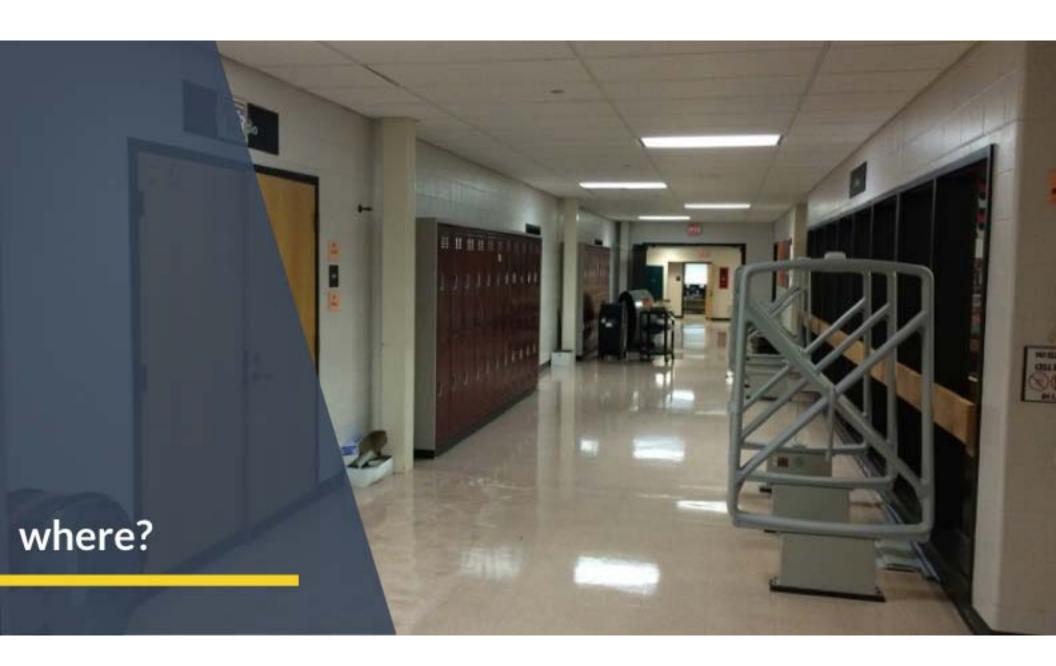

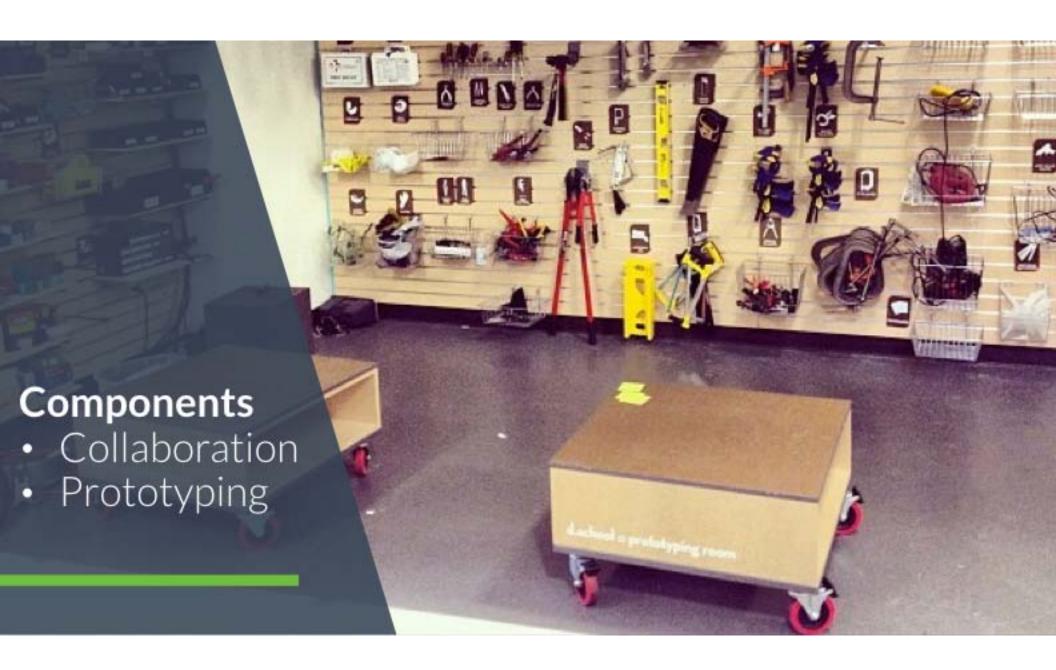

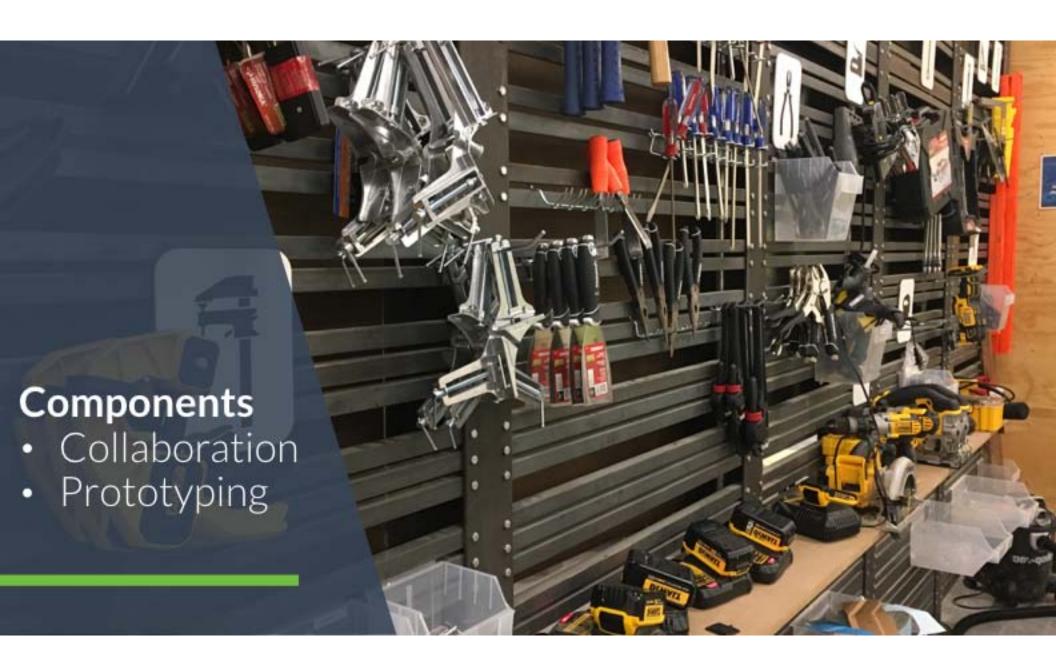

Components

- Collaboration
- Prototyping

