Educational Specifications
Design
Design
"Observing the students enter the new building on open house night, I became distinctly aware that this remarkable building would be a start of something new and magical for all students - no matter what their background or lot in life." -Melanie Gettier, PTSA President
"The common area is such a welcoming addition, I feel like I'm in a college."

— FHS Student
Dining
- The Courtyard
“The most valuable aspect of this building is how it intentionally fosters academic collaboration among students. Regardless of academic level or grade, all students feel special and collegiate working in these spaces.”

—FHS English Teacher Liz Matheny
"The think-tanks and co-labs are such a great idea, I just wish we had them in each classroom so we could use them every day."
- FHS Student
“The Frederick High School Alumni appreciate how the architects included us in the process of designing a building that reflects the heritage of Frederick County’s oldest high school.”
- Debbie Winpigler Richmond, ’77
“I love the lighting/chandeliers, they make me smile every time I see them.”

–FHS Student
- Physical Environment
“The most valuable aspect of this building is how it intentionally fosters academic collaboration among students. The use of open-air collaboration spaces and glass-enclosed Think Tanks allows passer-by students to casually observe their peers engaged in their learning and using the spaces productively. Regardless of academic level or grade, all students feel special and collegiate working in these spaces.”

—FHS English Teacher Liz Hatheny

LYNX Scholars learned to collaborate, communicate, and what employers look for in an applicant from LYNX Partner Lori Rovito Owner/Operator of Rita's of Frederick. Thank you for the great activity and for discussing important life skills...
“After spending my entire tenure in the old FHS building in windowless rooms, I had planned to retire at the end of this school year. The new FHS building has reinvigorated me, and I plan to continue teaching for several more years.”

—FHS English Language Learners Teacher Ann Dekmon
