

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE: Hero or Villain in Education

A4LE Northeast Regional Conference

Philadelphia, PA

April 28, 2023

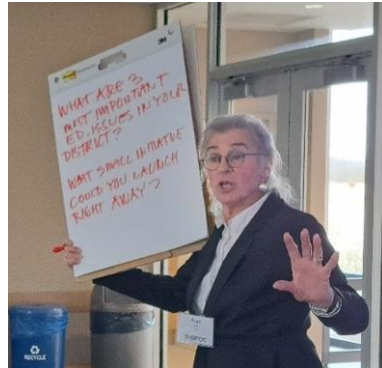

Who we are

Kate Jessup, AIA, ALEP

- Architect and Educational Planner at KBA

Dr Fran Locker, ALEP

- Locker Education + Architecture Planning

Kelvin Wang

- Student at Dalton Academy, Beijing, China

- Introduction to Generative AI
- AI throughout History
- AI in the News
- How does this align with 21st century educational ideals?
- Discovering ChatGPT
- How Kelvin Wang is using ChatGPT as a student
- Questions for Participants

Hero or Villain?

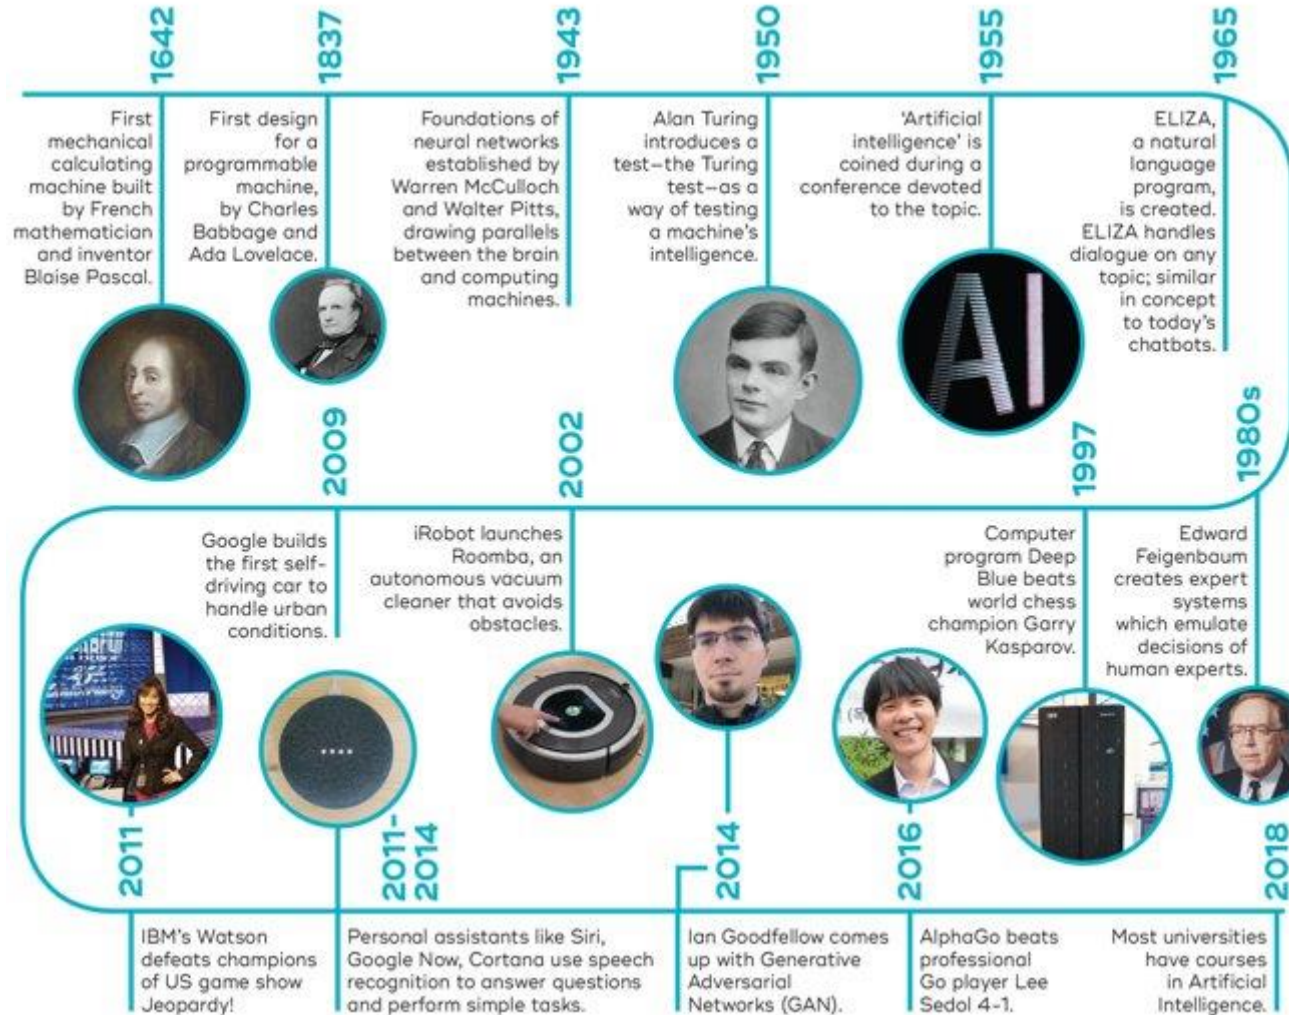

In small groups, share your initial thoughts and report out.

AI Throughout History

Timeline

AI in the News

Artificial intelligence, machine learning, and related technologies will have powerful impacts on learning not only through direct supports for students, but also by empowering educators to be more adaptive to learner needs and less consumed by routine, repetitive tasks. There is little question that we need innovative approaches in education and that AI will be a major new capability that allows innovation. Simply put, we will be able to do things that we have never done before.

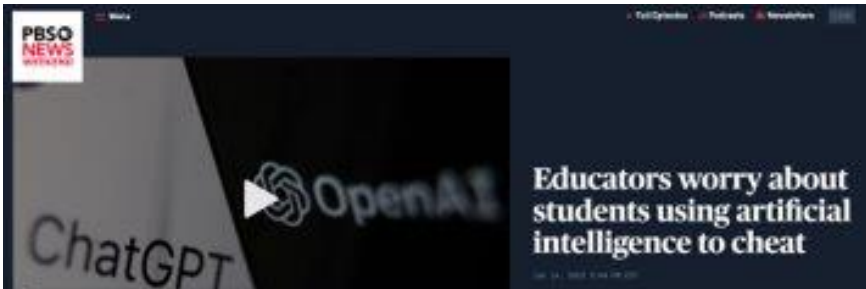

Kuwait news outlet unveils AI-generated presenter Fedha

1 day ago

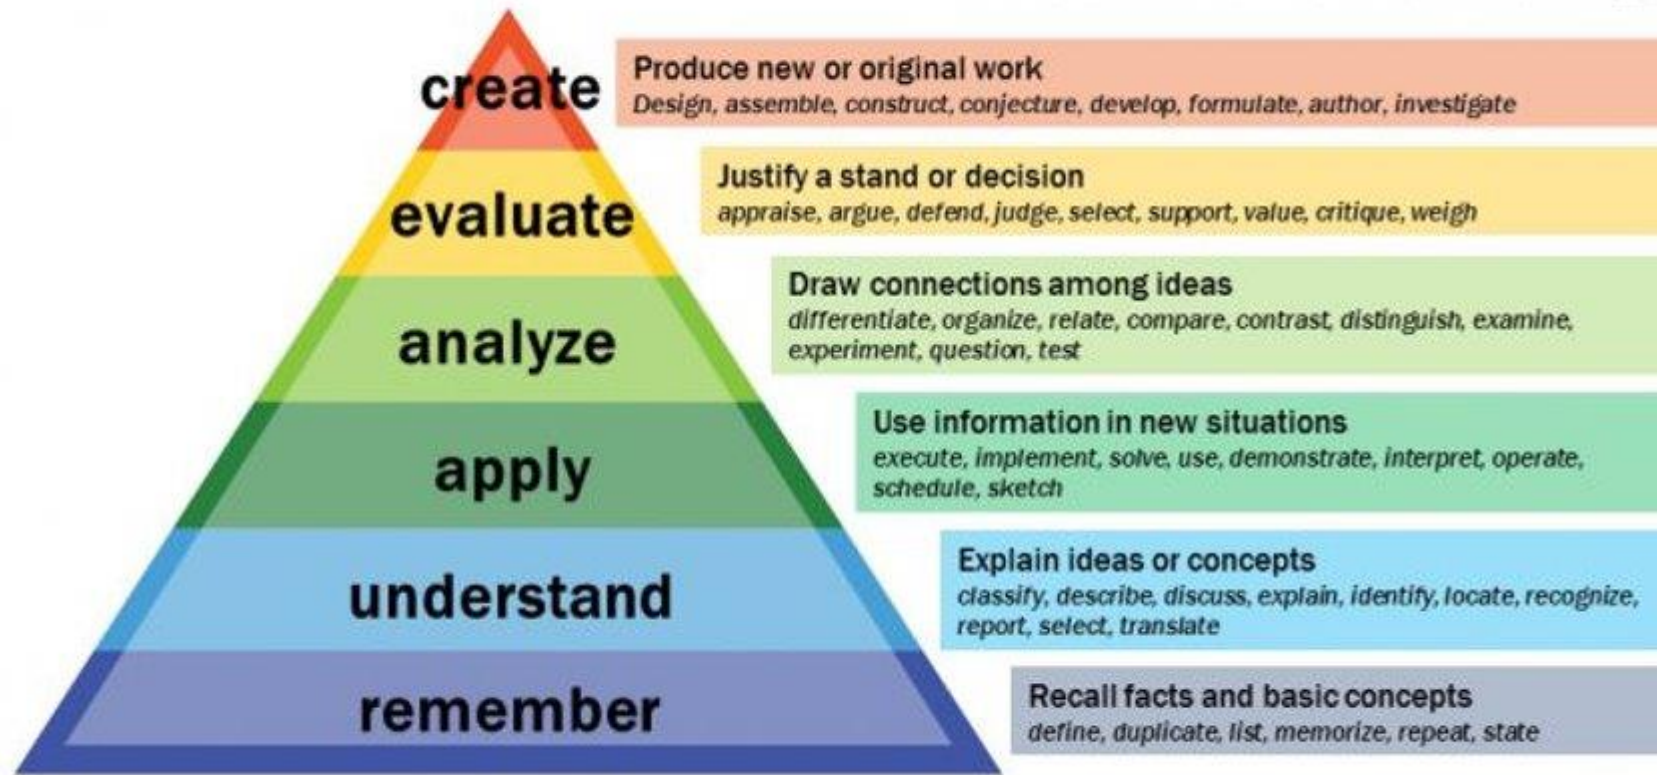

Fedha appeared as a woman with light-coloured hair, wearing a black jacket and white T-shirt.

By Antoinette Radford
BBC News

AI and 21st Century Education Connections

Bloom's Taxonomy

 Vanderbilt University Center for Teaching

Exploring Generative AI: ChatGPT

In small groups, develop questions to ask ChatGPT and share with the group.

How are students using AI?

Kelvin Wang shares his experience using ChatGPT in his education in Beijing, China.

Hero or Villain?

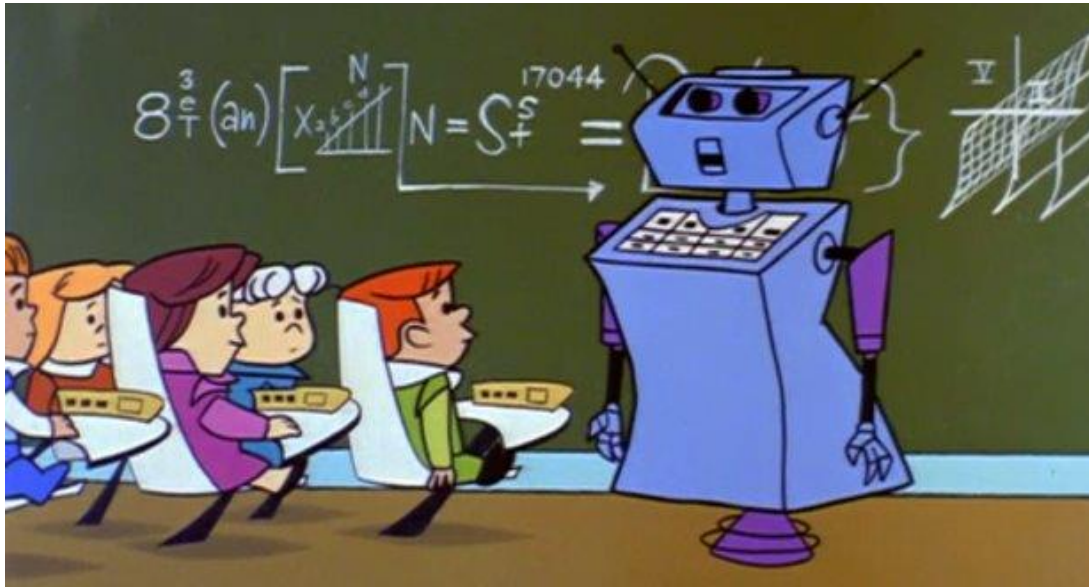

How can AI be leveraged in education?

In small groups, share your thoughts and report out.

Hero or Villain?

What could this mean for facilities?

In small groups, share your thoughts and report out.

Hero or Villain?

What could this mean for educators?

In small groups, share your thoughts and report out.

Hero or Villain?

Now that you have seen the potential,
we ask you again...

Hero or Villain in Education?

Contact Information

Dr Fran Locker
fl@locker.vision
617-412-7444

Kate Jessup
Kjessup@kba-architects.com
203-570-0230

Kelvin Wang
kelvinw2018@outlook.com
<https://www.theexolab.com/>
+86 158-1067-6731

