PROGRAM:
The Art of the Replacement School

PRESENTERS:
MICHELLE SANDEFUR, GRIFFIN MIDDLE SCHOOL
JOHN O’CONNOR, BALFOUR BEATTY CONSTRUCTION

Building a replacement school has become common place for many of our school districts that are land-locked or have aging facilities. This is a case study of one such project looking at the challenges we face as architects in designing within these constraints, as administrators to maintain the education environment during construction, and as contractors trying to build a new facility in multiple phases on a tight schedule and site. This specific project required early phased demolition of part of the existing facility and occupation of part of the new building midway through the project. This presented unique challenges for the school campus and contractor completing the rest of the building.
